

Freeze warning for major parts of North Texas late Friday to Saturday morning

Posted by Sumit | November 10, 2018

Majority of parts of North Texas have been given warning of freeze late Friday through Saturday morning.

Â
The warning included Dallas and Tarrant County and the majority of North Texas.Â It is believed that if the thermometer drops to 32Â° or lower than that, then it would be the first freeze after Feb. 12. Not only this, it would be the earliest freeze of thisÂ seasonÂ since 1993.

"Unite for Troops" organization is all set to prepare for the Veteran's Day Celebration in front of Porter's Army & Navy Store. This organization collects multiple supplies and letters in order to send them to deployed troops spread across the globe.

Saturday will be the dry day but chilly weather expected to go to the upper 40s and low 50s. Saturday overnight into Sunday might go the 40s.

The Unite for Troops event is expected to begin at 10 am on Saturday and end by 4 p.m.
