

14-year old Colony High School student taken into Police custody for bringing gun to class

Posted by Sumit | December 06, 2018

14-year-old Colony High School student was immediately taken into police custody yesterday when he was caught bringing a gun to the class.

Â

According to the campus resource officer, the child was detained around 2 p.m when a gun was found in the backpack of that student. Police officials say that there is no criminal or violence history of the student and the student never threatened class or school.

The investigations are still on in order to find out the exact reason to the why the student carried the gun to the campus.