But today, actresses have encouraged people to watch content-driven films. Giving examples of stars like Deepika Padukone, Alia Bhatt, Kangana Ranaut, Vidya Balan, and many more, She said that their films have a story to tell that force audience to watch their film. When she started her career, only a few people were doing it. That time, actresses were picked by the film actors. Now people have started appreciating films not by gender but by the content.

In the meantime, PeeCee is back in the town for some professional reasons. She was recently snapped at the airport early in the day. She truly looked like a boss lady in her cool blue blazer paired with a white vest and matching white shoes.
