Late composer-singer Ravindra Jain was visually impaired, but he didn't let his weakness become a world-famous musician. Music lovers, his fans continue to listen to his songs, and recently, his fantastic shows from the '90s like 'Ramayan' and 'Shri Krishna' are in the air, and his fans demand Bharat Ratna for the composer-singer.

Several fans suggested that he should get the prestigious Bharat Ratna Award. About the award, his wife said, "It would be proud of me to make such demands or requests. It means a lot when fans say such things. Somewhere, I agree with Jain's fans, not as a wife, but as a music lover, who enjoyed his work."
