Salman Khan is very busy this year as the actor has already signed some of the new films that would drive the fans to go crazy after him. Sooraj Barjatya was on a break and is now planning to make a comeback.

According to the latest reports from the leakers, Sooraj Barjatya is ready to make a comeback with another family drama but this time, not starring Salman Khan.

The filmmaker has already signed the script of the film. The only difference this time is that the film-maker is not ready to direct the new film.

Now we need to see, how the film-maker come up with the new film without Salman Khan. Hope, he comes up with an interesting story and creates magic on the bigger screen once again.
