Shahid Kapoor and Ranveer Singh, the superstars playing the lead role in one of the controversial films of the year "Padmaavat" are once again in news.

The rivalry between the two stars is growing day by day. Shahid Kapoor commented that he felt like an outsider on the sets of the film, Padmaavat, directed by Sanjay Leela Bhansali. Further to this, he adds that he could have played the better role of Alauddin Khilji (otherwise, played by Ranveer Singh in the film). This statement from the actor clearly shows the rivalry, growing between the two actors.

There is no denying the fact that most of the applauses in the film went to Ranveer and Shahid felt a bit insecure about his reputation as Maharawal Ratan Singh failed to get so much attention.

To this, Shobha Sant, the Chief Executive Officer of the Bhansali film Productions on Twitter, twitted that both of the production houses are very busy and trying to release the film in 3 states. As of now, no discussion has been done on the success bash of the film.

The Padmaavat film was released on January 25 and is running successfully in the theaters, hitting Rs 250-crore business at the box office. This film became of the history-creating film that took the career of the leading stars to a completely new level.
